

Solutions Journalism Network's resources:

Feel free to check out the SJN blog on Medium : you will find plenty of resources, such as a recording of a webinar and an article devoted to remote reporting and engaging with your audience or many case studies about the impact solutions journalism can have on revenue generation, audience engagement, accountability, etc. You'll also find material in french and german if needed.

We did not have much time to tell you about our Complicating the narratives project and training, on how journalists can learn from conflict mediation techniques to cover highly polarizing issues. You can learn more here (you might want to start with the very first piece on the list, Amanda Ripley's essay on why we need this), and please feel free to reach out if you'd like to get trained : nina@solutionsjournalism.org

In the meantime, here are just a few more resources to jumpstart your solutions reporting :

- Our learning Lab, with our basic toolkit (a 2 hours online course) available in 13 languages
- 24 questions that can help find COVID-19 solutions stories
- Our Solutions Story Tracker. Submit any you produce or find here!
- Some great tips on assessing evidence
- The COVID-19 SoJo Exchange where news organizations can find (or offer) free solutions stories on COVID-19

Here are a few more ways to stay connected to SJN:

- Subscribe to SJN's newsletters and sign up for the SJN's Hub to hear about our latest tools, events, training, funding, & opportunities. The Hub gives you full access to the Learning Lab.
- Join the global SJN's Facebook, European Facebook group or French Facebook group where you can ask questions, share tips, and highlight your work.
